Course Overview

An index is important to measure the performance of investments against a relevant market index. Some of the popular indexes are Nifty50 Bank Nifty and Sectoral Index.

An index fund is a portfolio of assets which generally includes shares in many companies, as well as bonds and other assets. Index trading is defined as the buying and selling of a specific stock market index and sectoral index.

Like any other market, it requires an in-depth understanding of the strategies. This course will explain you how to use technical analysis and F&O for Swing and positional trading of different stock indices, nifty and bank nifty trading.

Who will Benefit from this?

Investors | Traders | Sub-brokers/ Dealers | Working executives
